Real Estate To Be Taught At Redondo

Reflecting the increasing demand for professional real estate training in the South Bay area, University of California Extension will offer two real estate courses at Redondo Union High school, starting February 11 and 13.

Presented in cooperation with the South Bay Board of Realtors, both courses may be taken as part of the curriculum for the Real Estate Certificate Program, consisting of a total of eight courses.

The course in Real Estate Practices will survey the techniques used in the real estate business, with special emphasis on securing and qualifying prospects, listings, selling, legal factors, financing, advertising, and escrows. The class will be given Tuesday evenings, from 7 to 9:30 p.m., starting February 11. Joseph Chase, realtor, will serve as instructor.

The problems of property investment and management, especially as pertaining to Ocean Beach properties, will be analyzed in the course in property management, meeting Thursday evenings from 7 to 9:30 p.m., starting February 13. The instructor will be Whyllie Somers, bank property manager and appraiser.

Both courses will meet in room 311 of the school, located at Diamond and Pacific Coast highway in Redondo Beach. Registration is being accepted at the University of California Extension Center, 813 South Hill street, Los Angeles 14 (TUoker 6123), or through the first week of classes, space permitting.

Judge Mosk To Speak On Narcotics

Max Zeigler, exalted ruler of Gardena Lodge, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, announced this week that Judge Stanley Mosk, of the Superior Court, will be present in Elks Hall Monday, February 10, where he will make the keynote address at an anti-narcotics mass meeting.

Judge Mosk, a member of the California bar since 1935, has had a wide and varied experience as a jurist, during which time many narcotic addicts have been before him in judgment. His speech will deal with all phases of the narcotic problem, Zeigler said. The meeting called by the Elks ruler for the purpose of educating the public in the problems confronting parents interested in the eradication of dope trafficking, is the third in a series of such gatherings. Other prominent speakers are to appear in the succeeding months.

Judge Mosk recently announced his candidacy for the office of attorney general. He is a member of the Elks, Eagles, American Legion, Coast Guard League, Veterans Service League, Rotary, Town Hall, all national and local bar associations and many other legal, fraternal and patriotic organizations.
